The author is a Legal Advisor/Senior Policy Analyst with NAHO. The author is grateful to Sâkéj Youngblood Henderson, for his ongoing support for this important work and especially his guidance on section 35(4) of the Constitution Act, 1982. I would like to thank Zandra Wilson for her patience with me and for editing the papers in the Discussion Paper Series. My thanks also to Wanda McCaslin and Linda Cree, and to students Elle Baccega, Steve Vanloffeld and Trina Wall, and the NAHO staff for their input and hard work on this paper.

This Discussion Paper Series is jointly published by NAHO and the Native Law Centre, University of Saskatchewan. The views expressed in this Discussion Paper Series do not necessarily reflect those of the Native Law Centre.
